View in browser

FinancialPlanning

Retirement

November 13, 2024

By Nathan Place
Retirement reporter

I'm baaaaaaack!

Good to see you again, dear readers. After four months of paternity leave — and an outstanding job filling in by my colleague, Rob Burgess — today I'm making my triumphant return to the retirement newsletter. In other words, I'm taking my old job back.

And I'm not the only one. In January 2025, Donald Trump will be returning to the White House after four years off. What will that mean for Social Security? And what will it mean for Medicare? Over the past week, I asked analysts what to expect.

It's all in Financial Planning. Have a great week!

Connect with Nathan:

TOP STORIES

RETIREMENT

How will Trump's second term impact Social Security?

As Donald Trump returns to the White House, what changes can seniors — and their advisors — expect to America's oldest social program?

- What will Trump's return mean for Medicare?
  As the former president reenters the White House, significant changes to Medicare could be on the horizon. Here's what to expect.
- What Trump's re-election means for portfolios, Fed rate cuts

After yet another rate decrease, Federal Reserve Chair Jerome Powell remained defiant after Election Day, telling reporters he would not resign.

- Ask an Advisor: How do I use LinkedIn to boost my career?
  Of all the social networks, LinkedIn may be the trickiest combination of social and professional. Here's how financial advisors get the most out of it.
- Advisors warily confident in economy as Election Day arrives
  At the start of November, wealth managers and their clients stood watching and waiting as America decided its next president.

Read the latest in Retirement

SPONSOR CONTENT FROM EQT

Discover EQT's Approach to the Private Markets

Unlock growth through the private markets. Discover how EQT works to turn potential into performance across private markets.

FINANCIAL PLANNING

You're receiving this email because you signed up for Editorial emails from Financial Planning.

To update the emails you want to receive, or to unsubscribe from our mailing list, please visit our Email Preference Center.

arizent

Arizent
One State Street Plaza, 27th Floor
New York, NY 10004

About | Subscriptions | Contact | Privacy Policy

Have questions or concerns? Contact Support

Follow us in real time: